Sgt. JAMES R. McELHENRY

Wounded Glades Marine Sgt. Evacuated To Jacksonville

The war in Viet Nam was brought closer home again this week when another Glades boy suffered injuries in the stepped-up conflict.

Mrs. James R. McElhenry was awaiting word Wednesday that her husband, Sgt. James R. McElhenry, USMC who was injured in Viet Nam February 10, had arrived at the Jacksonville U. S. Naval Hospital. She and her parents and family planned to leave immediately to be with him there for several days.

The first word of injuries suffered by the young Marine came in a telegram on February 12, just 13 days after he reached Viet Nam.

USMC Commandant of the Marine Corps General Wallace M. Greene, Jr., notified McElhenry's wife of seven months, the former Rachael Collier, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James R. McElhenry of Pahokee that he had "sustained gunshot wounds to his right knee, right hand and neck, while participating in an operation against hostile forces."

A telegram on February 14, informed the wife that Sgt. McElhenry had been evacuated to the U. S. Air Force Hospital Clark Air Base, Philippine Islands on February 13, for further treatment.

Shortly after the telegram arrived, Mrs. Elhenry received a phone call from her husband that he was enroute to Jacksonville, but was so overjoyed she forgot to ask where he was calling from, but believed he was in California.

The young couple married August 16, just three days before the Marine Sgt. shipped out for Okinawa.

The young bride has been living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Collier, and is employed at Harris Insurance Agency.

The sergeant's mother, Mrs. Lisa McElhenry, is manager of H. C. Pence Store, Belle Glade.

Labor Bill Introduced By Sen. Smathers

A bill to create a five-man U. S. Court of Labor-Management Relations has been introduced by Senator Smathers.

Senator Smathers pointed out the court will enter a dispute only when the "President of the United States determines that an actual or threatened work stoppage... would imperil the national interest."

Thus, he said, the court will serve as a backdrop to free collective bargaining. The judges of the court, in fact, will first attempt to get the disputants to the bargaining table.

If a stalemate continues, the court will have power to issue final and binding decisions "in order to protect the safety and well-being of 190 million Americans."

demolishing everything practical in sight.

Cases of drinks were dumped, after opening, on the floor, food-stuffs were removed from refrigerators and dumped around generally. Decks and tables were overturned and obscene messages chalked on them.

Some of the quartet have admitted also entering the Belle Glade schools sometime ago, where the wanton destruction of property was omitted. One of the four involved has not yet been apprehended by the police, although his identity is known.

Another case of property destruction with the culprits in jail, is that of shooting holes in plate-glass windows with BB ammunition shot from a sling-shot.

A half dozen business houses had plate glass windows replaced on account of these boys' actions.

One of the boys is a juvenile, while the other, charged with these crimes is an 18-year-old named Kenneth Kimbrell.

These acts — the first are negroes and the second are white — suggest a revival of the whipping-post, between sessions of supervised work to earn the money to replace the damage.

Belle Glade Herald:

Find check of $400 for one more year's subscription to the Herald.

I have use for your paper in several ways. First, I write to papers and magazines, and your editorial column represents ideas coupled with others from across the nation for me.

Then I have land a few miles south of Belle Glade, and your paper keeps me informed as to that area's progress. Many people here come and borrow my Herald to read and see what sort of country Florida really is. In your paper they get ideas as to what your country really is, and the thinking of your citizens. The articles in your paper are sent by me to Washington to such men as Carl Albert, Congressman from Oklahoma, who represents our state in Washington.

The farmers here have the same trouble as your farmers in Florida regarding controls, etc.

To me your paper is a vital source of information I need. Thanks a lot and give my regards to George Young of your city.

Belle Glade Jr. High Mustangs played one of their best games this season against Watkins Saturday. The Mustangs led 13-9 after the first quarter but hit a cold spell in the second, with Watkins scoring seven points and holding Belle Glade to no points to take a 16-13 lead. At this time the Mustangs took a time-out and began a fast break, with Mark Crissman and Woody Brandon leading, that quickly put them out in front to stay.

The second half was all Mustangs as they ran Howell Watkins ragged. The whole team played a real good game. Charles Close led the Mustangs in scoring with 14 points, getting 12 during the first half. Charles was followed by Steven Close with 13. Billy Thiebaud had 8 and Woody Brandon got 7. Billy Thiebaud played his best game of the season as all eight of his points were scored by offensive rebounding. He and Charles Close were the leading rebounders for Belle Glade. Other boys playing in the game were Charles Johnson, Sonny Crawford, Ricky Roth, Eddie Latour, Dickie Snow, Ronnie Hilyer, and Jay Baker. Coaches Hilburn and Carder were real proud of the boys and are hoping the Mustangs can be the first Belle Glade team to win the County Tournament.

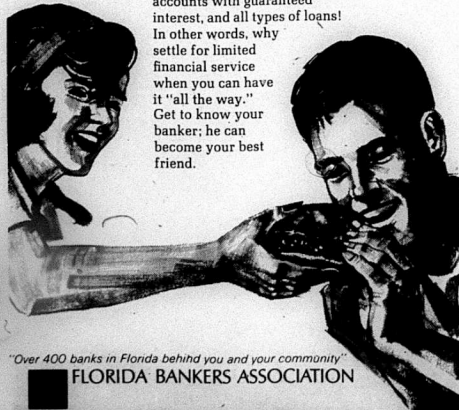

The Jr. High team plays Louisiana Friday at 4:00 P. M. at the West Palm Beach gym. If the Mustangs win they will play Jupiter, who won the Northern Division, at 9:00 A. M. Sat.

Hamburger all the way!

Sounds good. Of course some people might just have mustard and pickle or lettuce and mayonnaise but it sounds a little better when you say, "Hamburger all the way!" It's the same way in banking... most financial institutions have some services; but only at your BANK can you get COMPLETE service. Yes, checking accounts, savings accounts with guaranteed interest, and all types of loans! In other words, why settle for limited financial service when you can have it "all the way." Get to know your banker; he can become your best friend.

Snake Bites Kill Two

JACKSONVILLE — There were 331 reports of snake bites in Florida last year: rattlesnake, 19; moccasin, 16; copperhead, 1; pygmy rattlesnake, 27; coral, 2; unidentified, 35.

The two deaths last year were a 54-year-old man in Flagler County, bitten by a rattlesnake, and a 66-year-old man in Jefferson County, bitten by an unidentified snake.

The survey showed that 60 per cent of all patients bitten last year were in hospitals and under treatment within half an hour. Hospitals, the board says, are best-equipped to take care of victims.

Of all yearly victims, about 55 per cent are under the age of 20 and twice as many males as females are bitten. Fingers are most often bitten. Bites occur almost always during daylight hours and victims are generally near their homes when bitten. Persons attempting to catch or kill snakes account for about 20 per cent of the bites.

NEW YORK — Every day more than 1,000 American homes are struck by fire, according to the Insurance Information Institute.

Explorer Scout Activities

A Firearms demonstrations, safety and marksmanship was given by Explorer Post 612 during National Boy Scout Week, while Cub Scouts demonstrated crafts and homemade games. Mothers and interested spectators are pictured with their displays near the Elks Club.

Eagle Scouts Honored

One of the highlights of the 56th Anniversary of Scouting by Gulf Stream Council is the 5th Annual Eagle Scout Recognition Banquet (held evening of Thursday, February 10, 1968) at the Regency Room, Palm Beach Towers, Palm Beach, Florida, honoring those young men who have achieved Scoutings highest rank during the past twelve months. Mr. William Pratt was master of ceremonies.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Mr. F. A. Probose, Special Agent in Charge, Miami Field Office, Federal Bureau of Investigation. Mr. Probose linked the qualities necessary to attain Eagle Rank to the leadership needs of modern America, emphasizing "Duty to God and Country" and citizenship aspects of scout training.

Honored also was Eagle Scout M. David Pottoff of Fort Pierce. David was selected as the Outstanding Eagle Scout of the State of Florida to present Governor Burns with the 1965 report of Scouting earlier Thursday. Unable to attend in person because of the Tallahassee presentation, Pottoff telegraphed his congratulations to the Eagle Class of 1965.

Sponsored by a variety of businesses and individuals throughout the seven county Scout Council, the Eagle Recognition Banquet Committee, headed by E. E. Dailey, (169 Arlington Rd. West Palm Beach) matches outstanding men of the area to serve as Host-Counselors in vocational and professional fields of the individual Eagle's current interest.

Glades Businesses helping to sponsor this event were: Bank of Belle Glade, Everglades Federal Savings & Loan Association, Glades Chevrolet, and Sugarcane Growers Cooperative of Florida.

Attending the banquet from Belle Glade were John Causey, host-counselor; A. Blauer, sponsor representative and Frank Thomas, Council Scout Commissioner. Vance Denton, District Advancement chairman from Pahokee and Eagle Scout Kent Huebner from Okeechobee also attended.

Belle Glade Boy Scouts Observed Scout Week

Belle Glade was evidently very proud of their Boy Scout units this past week and the Scouts were fortunate that the Community took so much interest in their activities. Cub Scout Den and Scout Troops provided excellent display area in many business establishments for the entire week. The "grand finale" of the 56th Anniversary of Scouting occurred Saturday and Sunday.

If you were not able to attend the activities on Saturday afternoon you missed the opportunity to sample eggs and bacon cooked in a paper bag, roasted armadillo and other "tasty entrees." Persons of all ages were surprised at the "home made" games and miscellaneous handy items that the scouts made the inexpensive materials (in some cases normally considered trash).

It was evident from the targets displayed with the marksmanship exhibit that some of our local boys are pretty good shots. What might be termed the "eye catcher" or target exhibit was a tremendous, signal tower that has been lashed together by the boys. The tower, proved to be very well constructed as evidenced by the many boys (and girls) that were continually climbing it.

On Sunday, scouts attending church services in their uniforms and the various units were recognized during the service. It was obvious that the ministers appreciate the value of the scouting program by their actions and stimulating remarks.

The Scout leaders also appreciated the splendid cooperation of our local newspaper by informing the public of these activities in the "Big Week." They also appreciated the use of the site of the exhibit by the Elks Lodge.

Belle Glade Scout Show

Troops 601 gave a cooking and barbecue demonstration (left), Troop 621 cooked bacon and eggs in a paper bag (center), and Troop 622 built the lashed tower at (right) as their project demonstrations for National Boy Scout Week in Belle Glade.

When men reject the counsel of the Bible and come to the conclusion that sin should be condoned or even advocated, they are on exceedingly dangerous ground.

Nations have fallen and individuals have been destroyed, in the past, when they had turned to evil.

When will we learn to heed God's invitation?

God says, "Cease to do evil, learn to do well." Come now and let us reason together, saith the Lord. Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow."

Is This Advice Really Wise?

By Lewis Llewellyn

"Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools." This seems to be the season for men who are supposed to know what they are talking about to make the most unwise — not to say, downright foolish — recommendations.

A Harvard psychiatrist, studying the alarming increase in alcoholism, was seeking the answer to it, has suggested that courses in the drinking of alcoholic beverages be taught to children in our schools.

If this would work, why don't we bring cancer, under control by infecting the children of the nation with this disease?

A most cogent comment was made by Gov. Harold E. Hughes, of Iowa, himself a reformed alcoholic. He said, "The psychiatrist ought to consult a psychiatrist."

Disregard Immorality? A panel of psychiatrists from such schools as Harvard, Sarah Lawrence College, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology has come forth with the pronouncement that, since the standard of morality practiced on the campuses of some of our institutions of higher learning is not up to the standard set by the institutions, the best thing is to accept the situation and do nothing about it.

Specifically, the educators stated that colleges and un-

Safety Patrol Crowns Sweetheart

The Safety Patrol of Lake shore Elementary school held its annual Sweet heart ball on Valentine's Day. The setting was appropriate for the occasion, depicting a huge, lovely heart covered red decoration, the lining of the heart when open was of blue and silver colors.

Mr. James Monroe, Physical Education instructor and one of the sponsors for the patrol group designed and decorated the heart and cafeteria with the help of the other sponsor, Mr. David Hill fifth grade instructor, and the help of the entire patrol group.

Saturday was a big day with the Patrol decorating the stage and auditorium. Mrs. Hattie Bythetwood and Mrs. Maud Voreen, served as chaperones for the Safety Patrol Sweetheart Ball.

Jean-Pierre Filipinetti, driver of a $14,000 Mercedes, test-drove a '66 Ford.

His opinion: Ford rides quieter.

"It's incredible," said M. Filipinetti, "the Ford is quieter."

"The quiet, it's tremendous," continued M. Filipinetti, "it's incredible that you could build a car so luxurious as this at such a price." Ford's amazing quietness is the result of deep-down quality and engineering excellence.

And Ford for '66 offers more engineering magic: Optional new Stereo-Sonic Tape System that turns your Ford into a concert hall. Exclusive Magic Doorgate for wagons swings out like a door for people and down like a tailgate for cargo. Consejos Para La Seguridad Y

Los Calentadores

1. Cuando el calentador es de gas, dejar en un lugar de la casa siempre una ventana abierta. Y si es de kerosene, cuando sale llama amarilla quiere decir que no está quemando el gas y escapa para dentro del cuarto.
2. Limpíen bien diariamente o regularmente todo alrededor del heater. La basura y los bichos pueden entorpecer la mezcla del combustible, y las valvulas se pueden incendiar.
3. Cuando se tenga que reparar, utilice un especialista en calentadores, pensando que los da más calor. Pague comenzar un fuego o causar gases peligrosos.
4. No le eche papeles, ni trapos, ni material alguno en el heater. Repare las partes que se dañen. Si el heater este bien instalado, y encendidos siguiendo las instrucciones para evitar explosión.
5. No use ropas que puedan estar cerca del heater ni tenga material inflamable cerca de este.
6. Apriete el heater antes de salir de la casa, o antes de ir a la cama. Hasta un electric heater puede causar fuego a través de toda la noche acurdiéndose de abrir un poco una ventana, y dejar entrar aire fresco el próximo día.
7. No use calentadores hechos en su casa. Repare las partes que se dañen. Si el heater este bien instalado, y encendidos siguiendo las instrucciones para evitar explosión.
8. Evite calentar con carbón sin amplia ventilación. El carbón quema todo el oxígeno en un cuarto cerrado. Lo mismo que el kerosene, los gases son igualmente peligrosos en una ecina sin ventilación adecuada.

She eats steak three times a day — and not much else. Miss Stanwyck said, "When I get up in the morning I have steak and potatoes to give me energy for the 12 hours I'll have to spend at the studio. Then at noon I don't like a heavy meal because it makes me sleepy. So I have steak and milk."

Taxes were an issue 4,000 years ago; they are a subject of intense debate today.

Man first began to provide through government for services he could not provide himself.

"We are told that Mary and Joseph were in Bethlehem to pay taxes when Christ was born."

"We know also that Christ admonished his inquirers to 'Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's.'"

"Pharaoh's Fifth," was tax monies due the Royal Treasury, and history tells us that Romans knew poll tax, income tax excise and property taxes."

"Earlier patterns of tax-paying allowed payment in kind—furs delivered skins to the collectors."

"Taxes changed history when Rehoboth kept the rates set by his father, Solomon; the result was the secession of the Ten Tribes of Israel."

In 1649 Charles 1st lost his head over taxes; the French Revolution in 1789 is largely attributed by historians to crushing tax system. It is estimated that peasants paid as high as 50 percent up in all taxes.

In all his centuries of trying, man still has not solved what he calls "The Tax Problem."

Our federal income tax was added as an appendage to the Underwood Tariff Bill of 1913, with Oscar W. Underwood the father.

Senator Borah in protesting suggestion by Attorney Cheadle that the income tax conceivably could go to 50 percent said "Whose equity, sense of fairness, of justice does he (Cheadle) question?"

Rates in 1913 can up to seven percent, and most citizens were exempt. Today, top rate is 91 percent, with the 50 percent rate commencing at around $16,000 taxable income.

When our national debt was $38 billion people were concerned; today it is $328 billion. Someone remarked that we are so rich that even Europe and Asia are now trying to figure out ways and means to spend OUR money.

Men search today, as they did in the past, for means that are just without being harsh, and for methods of obtaining maximum services at minimum costs.

An example of tax assessments that have defeated their purpose by creating undesirable effects serious enforcement problems or high cost of compliance in the moonshine racket which was caused as a side effect of high taxes on distilled spirits. Estimates hold that one quarter of all whiskey produced is made illegally; tax loss is almost a billion dollars yearly — law enforcement occupies 900 federal agents.

The American people now put more than 100 billion dollars a year into taxes, an amount equal to one-quarter of the value of every thing produced in the nation. Levied upon themselves by a people who control their own tax affairs, this enormous sum represents an extension of the historic objects of taxation.

People today look to government for services which were not contemplated earlier in history. The basic problem of raising money to pay for them is much the same as it was when Christ was born. But the demands of a more complex civilization, and a higher living standard, produce an entirely different scale of needs. There was one single donkey path from Jerusalem to Rome. Today, in the U. S. there are more than 3.4 million miles of paved road and a program underway to build more than $50 billion dollars worth of additional highways. Education cost a few centuries ago were negligible; today the cost in the U. S. is more than $10 billion dollars a year.

The historic purpose of taxation was to support the crown, and protect it against outside hostility. Today, in the U. S. taxes still provide

FIRST IN WAR—FIRST IN PEACE—

And first to preserve the beauty of our Country.

Among George Washington's greatest virtues according to historians, were determination, energy, patriotism, a keen sense of justice and common sense, backed by meticulous honesty.

His elementary schooling, by private tutors; his advanced schooling came from self-teaching and experience in estate management at an early age. His reputation as a surveyor stemmed from a smattering of fundamentals taught by associates, and the necessity to perfect that knowledge through commissions of acquaintances plus the need on the family farms and timber lands.

His proficiency in military matters came from experience and necessity in action, and resort to that common sense.

George Washington was a crop farmer; he was a cattleman, a lover of horses and a breeder of farm animals, trotters and races.

As one of America's first conservationists, George Washington is well known for the trees associated with him.

On this 234th anniversary of his birth it is fitting to recall his love of beautifying the landscape.

Two pecan trees given to Washington by Thomas Jefferson in 1773 are said to be the oldest trees now standing on the Mount Vernon Estate.

Today the grounds have been completely landscaped using Washington's writings as a guide.

Washington was a "Gentleman Farmer" with the social graces and inclinations to find his 220-pound, six-foot-three figure familiar to the social life in the Virginia of his day.

George Washington was an ordinary man of his day, with an inherited sense of obligation that kept improvement in citizenship, surveying, soldiering and public office holding forced on him through positions of leadership not sought by him, but bestowed by friends and fellow workers.

Another FIRST he earned, we believe you will agree, is that of The First Example of the heights to which Americans may soar when determination, integrity and love of country are built on the foundation of honesty and equity.

Future Farmers Of America Week

Future Farmers of America Week is to be observed during the February 19-26 period. And the theme that has been chosen for it — "Agriculture Is More Than Farming" — admirably points up the Week's purpose and significance.

There is a term, "Agri-business," which often is used in reference to all the occupations that are related to farming. The chain of agriculture starts with the suppliers to farmers — those who provide goods and services ranging from machinery and chemicals to insurance and technical services. Farmers, the producers of raw materials, are the center link. Then come marketing, processing, transportation and distribution. All in all, this agricultural complex employs many millions of people and is America's largest industry.

Vocational agricultural education in the high school provides a start for boys to obtain the training needed to enter these occupations. Some will go on to college or technical schools. About a third will return directly to the farm, and they will have the knowledge that additional education is available to them in young, farmer and adult farmer classes conducted by teachers of vocational agriculture.

The Future Farmers' organization supplements the regular school instruction by providing opportunities for leadership development. Its goal is to help train young men for a wide horizon of agricultural occupations. And this is a needed and invaluable work.

The Greatest Story Never Told

IS Prosperity Our Only Goal?

By Harilee Branch, Jr., President
The Southern Company

One must recognize that we are still too close to the events of 1965 to assess them categorically, and still too remote from the events of 1966 to do more than conjecture their likely shape.

But, though we possess neither the perspective of historians nor the prescience of prophets, nevertheless our inquiry may not be without value. If only it serves to increase our awareness of where we are and how we got here, it may enable us the more safely to negotiate the hazardous road ahead. And there are hazards on the road ahead though their existence may at times be concealed by a mirage of complacency and contentment.

'65 A YEAR OF PARADOX

As I see it, 1965 was a year of paradox — a time not unlike that of the French Revolution which Charles Dickens described in the opening paragraph of his "Tale of Two Cities" as:

"...the best of times — the worst of time — the age of wisdom — the age of foolishness — the epoch of belief — the epoch of incredulity — the season of Light — the season of Darkness — the spring of hope — the winter of despair — (a time when) we had everything before us (yet) nothing before us — (a time when) we were all going direct to Heaven (or) direct the other way."

Statistically, the year 1965 was a record-breaker. For the fifth straight year, Americans enjoyed boom times. In the fourth quarter, personal income in our country reached the staggering total of $45 billion; corporate profits soared to $45 billion; retail sales skyrocketed to $289 billion; private construction consumed nearly $48 billion; approximately 73 million civilians were engaged in gainful employment, the highest number in history; average factory wages were at the unprecedented level of $2.64 per hour; and gross national product, for the first time, passed $680 billion.

The statistics I have recited are heady statistics, indeed. And most of the economists and industrialists of our nation — though somewhat sobered by recent events — seem still to believe that the American economy will move to even higher statistical levels in 1966.

For example, economists of U. S. News & World Report have predicted that our gross national product will rise another $44 billion, or 6.4 per cent, during the next 12 months, reaching the breathtaking level of $732 billion by the last quarter of this year; that personal incomes will soar another $27 billion, corporate profits another $12 billion, retail sales another $13 billion; and that by the year's end an additional 1½ million workers will have become gainfully employed. It looks like a sixth consecutive year of boom for the United States — the longest period of sustained prosperity in the history of our nation.

Looking at these statistics, and at them alone, one is tempted to conclude that "The Great Society," promised by some of our national leaders, is well on the way to being achieved.

We need to remember, however, that it takes more than statistics, more than mere affluence and growth to make a truly great society.

A TUMOR IS A GROWTH—BUT—

Some growth can be cruelly debilitating and destructive. A tumor, for example is growth — a growth, however, which left untreated and unexcised will inexorably destroy the organism on which it feeds. A man afflicted with a tumor is not made well simply because his income rises and his possessions multiply; nor is a society made great simply because it grows in affluence and in material well-being if it withers in institutions and traditions have been left to its wither.

Uncle Dan From Doolie Says

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers at the country store Saturday night was general agreed that the world of today was hurting all over more'n it was hurting in any one place. You don't get deep thinking like this, Mister Editor, from our State Department, and it ain't often you get grass roots philosophy from the Congress.

What brings this matter up was one of the fellers — and I ain't calling his name at this time — reported he was taking next Tuesday for a holiday on account of it being George Washington's birthday. He allowed as how that was one day out of 365 every year when he took off complete. Personal, I never heard tell of him hitting a lick at a blacksnake on the other 364 but I didn't say nothing.

But this got Ed Doolittle to wondering what Washington would think if he could take a quick look today at the country he was the father of. Ed, that has took to crutches since the Great Society got in full swing, was of the opinion ole George would say the Lord to forgive him for ever starting this mess.

Zeke Grubb was agreed with Ed, that maybe we ain't making no circles and getting no place fast. For instance, said Zeke, we got machines that can take ocean water and make it fit to drink, but we was poisoning our rivers with all kinds of chemicals faster than we can treat the water back like it was. And we got pills for everything that can git wrong with us, pills to 'slow us down, speed us up, make us sleepy, keep us awake, and just about everything that keeps us from feeling natural. Furthermore, allowed Zeke, they was putting more safety gadgets on cars but was making 'em bigger and faster and ever year we set a new record for folks getting killed on fancy highways. We was getting telephones, reported Zeke, that show you who you was talking to, but we live so fast in them big cities a feller don't even know his next door neighbor.

This was a pretty long speech for Zeke and some of the fellers give him a round of applause. Bud Hookum was agreed with Ed and Zeke, said he had saw a piece in the papers where we got more television sets in this country than we got inside toilets. Bud reported he didn't have neither, and he figured ole George would be the feller who was better off, claimed Bud, in George's time when all we needed about science was that when you thumped a watermelon and it went "plink" it was ripe, and if it went "plink" it was green.

I admit, Mister Editor, there was two sides to this matter, that maybe we ain't making the best of things, but I'd rather be here now than in George's time, even if it was making garbage collectors "garbologues" in Washington.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dan

At the risk of being deemed a Cassandra, I would point out that in the midst of all the prosperity I have previously described, there are evidences that certain institutions and traditions which have made our American society as now being seriously threatened. Specifically, I am concerned over what is happening to the self-reliance and the sense of individual responsibility of our citizenry.

There is a growing tendency in our country to scoff at the "Puritan Ethic" and self-reliance — the concept that it is the individual, not the mass, that is of ultimate importance; that only as men recognize that they individually must be the architects of their own fortunes — and only if they cherish their individual dignity, courageously assert their individual opinions, and industriously apply and frugally husband their individual resources can they hope to build a really great society.

SELF RELIANCE — WHERE IS IT?

No great society was ever constructed by sycophants and faint-hearts, by men willing to sacrifice their individual freedoms in order to escape their individual responsibilities. This was what Ralph Waldo Emerson had in mind a century ago when he warned America:

"God will not have his work made easier by cowardice... trust thyself... great men have always done so... we are now men, not minors and invalids in a protected corner, not cowards fleeing before a revolution but guides, redeemers and benefactors, obeying the Almighty effort and advancing on Chaos and the Dark... Society everywhere is in conspiracy against the manhood of every one of its members. Society is a joint-stock company, in which the members agree, for a better securing of his bread to each shareholder, to surrender the liberty and culture of the eater. The virtue in most demand is conformity. Self-reliance is its aversion."

WHERE IS GOVERNMENT — AT HOME?

There was a time when Americans were suspicious and fearful of government, especially big government — a time when we considered ourselves to be best governed when we were least governed. At a time when our citizens looked to government only for those services which they could not, either individually or in association, provide for themselves. That day, I fear, is rapidly passing; indeed, it may have already passed.

Significantly, it is the federal government — the government furthest removed from the people — which has sought most aggressively to fill the vacuum created by our loss of individual confidence and self-reliance. This is the result, in part, of the willingness of local and state officials, and in many instances the willingness of their business constituents as well, to become the plant and conforming conduits of any federal largesse so long as it promises to relieve them of the difficult and unpleasant duty of meeting their own needs and so long as it assures them of their share of a national bonanza which neither they nor their Congressional representatives had the political courage to oppose.

Atrophy and decay are the inevitable consequences of inactivity. It may be that we are witnessing in America not only the death of private initiative but of local and state governments as well. There was a time in English and American political history when the county was the most vital of governmental units. That day is gone, and in most places, county governments have lost their viability as well as their meaningfulness. The same thing could happen to municipal and state governments. When all we require to take care of our governmental needs are federal pay clerks and compliance officers, we may find that Mayors and Aldermen and Governors and state legislators have become a luxury too expensive to indulge. I am sure that most of your governmental officials are aware of this possibility. I wonder sometimes if their counterparts elsewhere have even given it a thought.

Five years ago a youthful President obviously concerned by the growing tendency of Americans to look to Washington for salvation, security and solace, delivered this ringing challenge to the people: "Ask not what your country can do for you — ask what you can do for your country."

The response to that challenge was electrifying. Our people sensed — even those too young to have any recollection of the nation's self-reliant past — that they were being called upon to recapture the American dream. Unfortunately, too much had been drained from our national character, too many lasting resolve. The virus of a "new economics" — first proclaimed by John Maynard Keynes, an English economist, in 1936 and exported to this country in the depths of the Great Depression — had taken too strong a hold on the minds of our politicians and professors.

WHEN SHOULD GOVERNMENT TAKE OVER?

The Keynesian doctrine, in somewhat oversimplified terms, holds that it is the responsibility of government to provide the stimulus necessary for what the government may deem to be an adequately buoyant economy; and, to that end, government should use not only the monetary controls implicit in its central banking system but also its powers to tax and to spend.

Keynes, recognizing that his doctrine could lead to the complete sublimation of private enterprise, cautioned that direct intervention by government into the fields of economic activity and stimulation should be limited to periods of decline and depression. And the U. S. Employment Act of 1946, enacted by the American Congress largely, if unknowingly, to some Congressmen, on the basis of the Keynesian doctrine, did provide that the massive powers therein entrusted to the President to determine when governmental power should be used to safeguard the economic health of the nation, should be exercised "in a manner calculated to foster and promote free competitive enterprise. However, as so often happens, the basic caution urged by Keynes and the aforementioned limitation in the 1946 Act have both either been ignored or cleverly evaded. Thus, in 1965 — a year of unprecedented national prosperity — a dole Congress, responding to Executive pressures, enacted a conglomeration of social legislation, the end results and the end costs of which are beyond the ability of any of us, or even our government, to calculate.

According to The New York Times, this legislative program — and the executive steps taken to implement it — were hailed by the President at the year's end as representing "a widespread acceptance of disciplined but vigorous federal action to assure opportunity for individual citizens and to keep the economy growing" and as evidence of "the kind argument over the welfare state has been resolved in favor of Federal action."

WHERE WILL DEBT END?

If that is a correct interpretation of the 1964 election returns and the 1965 Congressional enactments, and it may well be — then we ought not to be shocked that governmental spending, despite budget deficits, in the prosperous year just passed was more than $140 billion ($31 billion more than the total spent by all private businesses) or by the prospect that governmental spending in 1966 — expected to be an even more prosperous year — will rise perhaps to $155 billion. Nevertheless, we should be concerned — seriously concerned — with where these new economic and political theories are leading us and what they are doing to the character, the pride, the stamina and the self-reliance of the individual citizen in this land.

In preparing these remarks, I asked myself what good a discourse on self-reliance can possibly do at this late date when most Americans seem to be either mesmerized by its "new economics" or perfectly willing to trade their independence for governmental subsidies and favors. Then I remembered that in a democracy all that is needed to assure the loss of freedom is for enough of our citizens to remain silent when freedom appears to be in jeopardy. I happen to believe in the free enterprise system, and as a businessman I think I have a duty to defend it not only from direct assault but also from the more insidious and more dangerous erosion of principles essential to its survival. If, therefore, I seem to have introduced a jarring note in a time of conformity and acquiescence, it is only because I still hope that the philosophy of free enterprise will not pass into discard as "The Greatest Story Never Told."

Failure to look in the rear view mirror is apt to provoke a bad case of hindsight."

FOR THE FAMILY
MANAGER

ITEM: About half the family food dollar goes for protein foods — meats, poultry, fish, milk, and eggs — so the economy-minded shopper will do well to strive for efficient purchases in these items. Many delicious, low-cost main courses can be prepared from the less tender cuts of meat or meat substitutes.

ITEM: Children may soon get protein from an unexpected source. Research workers in the U. S. Department of Agriculture announce they can use dried cottage cheese whey in fruitcake bolognas without changing the flavor. The whey is substituted for about one-sixth of the sugar.

ITEM: Most house plants will do well in daytime temperatures between 65 and 75 degrees, but if it cools at night — between 50 and 55 degrees. Porous clay pots, whose walls absorb less heat, will help keep plants cooler. In overheated houses, it's a good idea to keep plant collections on tables with wheels, which can easily be moved to cool locations at night.

ITEM: Spare the calories when buying food, nutrition specialists advise. Ground meats with less fat have more protein than leaner meats, and meats with less fat have more protein than leaner meats.

Recognize any of these Patrolmen? Several years ago they were the center of attention to all motorists traveling in the vicinity of the Belle Glade Elementary.

What all those arm motions meant, no one could ever guess. Were they leading a symphony orchestra or swatting the maitre d' out.

Most of these "children" who juniors and seniors now, are still leaders among their class.

Gossiping Gandy

The Roving Eye certainly has been busy this week. Here are a few of my observations:

I hear that West Palm Beach is awfully lively on Friday nights. Just ask Brenda K., Kandie D., or Linda Huggins.

Cary W., who do you study trig with? Is that why you make such good grades?

Ivan W., do you always throw your opponents in the pond at Golf Matches?

Mr. Melnick, is it true that you only have two ties?

It appears as if several of our faculty members are becoming coked! Mr. Morris, Coach Crawford, and Mr. Marquess knows all about it.

Janice White's family car was stolen Saturday, February 7. Was found February 8.

It is really true that a certain tennis player wrapped around a light pole?

How was your picnic at the park last Monday Amanda B. and Ellen K.?

Were there enough cookies to go around for those starving tennis players?

Gary W., how did you get that bump on your head? Don't tell us you walked into a door.

Lura L. and Tanya C. are turning their neighborhood into a zoo. There are now three raccoons, and numerous dogs and cats.

Some girls receive letters daily, but: Sandy G., we heard about your receiving seven letters all in one day from the same boy?

Sherry N. seems to rush home to the mailbox every day, could it be for a certain letter?

Patricia C., after two long weeks of staying at home, how does it feel to be able to go places?

Queen W., have you asked Eddie P. how his nose feels lately?

Bill M., what do you find so interesting in girl's pocketbooks?

The seniors are really awake. It seems they can't even remember to come to get their superlative pictures made.

Seems Dee Dee M., and Ray S., are seeing a lot of each other lately - anything serious?

Edad M., was that a real cigar that you had in assembly?

It seems that Brenda B. and Amanda B. both have acquired a talent for using rubber bands in Journalism.

Hey, Don't you think Belle Glade was well-represented in the speech contest?

Watch what you do, because the Roving Eye sees all!

Better Late Than Never?

Remember three weeks ago when our teeth chattered and our minds were frozen - during semester tests. Well, last week new heaters were installed in the library science department, and other rooms in the school. The only trouble is that they were installed a little late.

On January 31, one of the biggest coldest days in years hit Florida. For days girls could be seen with knee socks of all colors and boys wore layers of bright color sweaters. Chemistry students burned bunsen burners to keep warm and asked if they could stand outside where it was warmer.

Now that the warm sunny skies of Florida are on the scene again the heaters are of little use. Maybe next year the students will appreciate the heaters more if they're working.

Judge, "Madam, you are charged with creeping into your husband's room and shooting him with a bow and arrow. Will you now tell the jury your reason for such an act?"

"Of course, your honor, I didn't want to wake the children!"

Kill this pellitory weed in sugar cane.
Use Atrazine. Here's how:

When you see pellitory weed starting to grow, apply Atrazine 80W herbicide, plus a little surfactant. You'll clean out infestations of this winter annual fast and effectively . . . without hurting cane.

Atrazine is safe to sugar cane. It will not injure your crop when you apply it as directed on the label. And since it's non-volatile, there's no danger of drift to adjacent, sensitive crops.

Even though Atrazine has proved to control pellitory at any stage of growth, early treatment assures best results. With pellitory under control early, you grow more sugar cane per acre.

That's because Atrazine prevents pellitory from interfering with sugar cane tillering. Also, Atrazine helps make soil moisture and nutrients available for your cane, and not for pellitory weed.

So plan now to grow the maximum tonnage of sugar cane from each acre you plant this season.

Use Atrazine to control pellitory weed this winter.

F. T. A. Present Program During P. T. A.

The program was presented in the following manner:

Etiquette Column

able manners are important because you are constantly eating around others, be it at home, at school, at a restaurant or cafe. Always use every place food is being served, you will find that there are more persons around than you, and your manners will have to be taken under consideration in order to be appreciated by others.

When you are eating with or around others you should always watch your table manners, because someone is always watching you. You should be considerate by being sure you don't make the meal unpleasant for others. Can do this by remembering all the Basic Do's and Don'ts of table manners such as:

1. Don't reach across the table.
 2. Don't talk with food in your mouth.
 3. Don't eat with your elbows on the table.
 4. Don't chew with your mouth open.
 5. Do use your napkin.
 6. Do use your knife.
- We should always remember when you are eating that you should always watch your table manners. People to judge you by the way you present yourself at the table.

Book Of The Week
DINNY GORDON.
FRESHMAN
By Anne Emery
This is a timely teenage novel that was written by Anne Emery who today is undoubtedly one of the favorite authors of the teenage group. The novel concerns the private life of Dinny Gordon who has just entered high school as a freshman.

Dinny was small, slim and very quiet. She wore her hair in a short cut and smooth on her head. Somehow, she was convinced that she was thoroughly unattractive and therefore was determined to achieve something where looks didn't matter. Her secret desire was to hunt for buried treasure, probably, in some of the "ancient cities" of Greece. This desire was too obscure and farfetched to tell her friends so she kept it to herself to feed, nourish and dream about it alone.

The first thing that she planned in her high school curriculum was four years of Latin, and at some later date to study Greek which would help her in her search for the buried treasures. She did not discuss this with her friends because she liked her peers to think of her as the quiet, unassuming girl who was not interested in boys, that is, until she met Clyde.

Investiture Ceremony Held
On Thursday night of February 3, 1966, an Investiture Ceremony was held in the Lake Shore High School Cafeteria for the Senior Girl Scouts of Troop 194. The program began with a Flag Ceremony given by the Boy Scouts of Troop 72, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance and then everyone sang America.

After the singing of America, a prayer was given by the Cub Master of Pack 769, Mr. James Pettway. The Girl Scouts repeated the Girl Scouts Promise and her Aunt Harriet in Beaver Dam. She had asked Dinny and her family to be especially nice to Clyde.

Dinny felt sorry for him moving away from his familiar surroundings and then having everyone laugh at him because he was comically getting lost on campus. Although she was certainly not interested in boys, she felt that the circumstances concerning Clyde were acute. He needed help and it looked as if the whole senior class was oblivious to his predicament. Yes, she finally decided to help. Several interesting episodes occur in the story that will thoroughly entertain and delight you. We heartily recommend this as ideal reading for every teenager regardless of his reading skill.

"A Thing Of Beauty"

(Excerpts)
By: John Keats
A thing of beauty is a joy for ever:
Its loveliness increases, it will never Pass into nothingness; but still will keep
A bower quiet for us, and a sleep
Full of sweet dreams, and health, and quiet breath.
Therefore on every morrow,
Are we wreathing a flowery band to bind us to the earth.

"The Tattler's Column"

Well, here I am again with some exciting news that will burn everyone's ears.
Grady B. I understand that you and Sandra R. are trying to go straight. Is it true?
Katie B. have you and Herbert S. settled your differences?
Patricia P. I understand that you and Fred W. are trying to make something of your friendship. Keep up the good work.
Alphonso M. I understand that you're trying to take Mildred J. from Curtis M. Is it true?
Patricia P. I understand that you and Willie Q. are doing fine. All of this is good.
Mendie M. I understand that you and Willie Q. are taking life easy.
Betty O. What happened to you and Fred W. did he find someone else?
Daniel P. What's happening to you and Mary A. I understand you are planning on breaking up?
Curtis M. What were you, Sammy E. Daniel P. and Manfred S. doing hanging around the windows? Couldn't you find something better to do or have you joined the C. staff?
Catherine L. Has the lucky young man come along yet?
Mary A. T. Why are you so loud? Could it be because you want to be noticed?
Linda J. W. Who is the lucky young man since you and you know who, broke up?
Until the next time, keep your business to yourself, because someone might just kick it in the newspaper. Ha! Ha! Ha!

Members of the Lake Shore family would like to pay special tribute to the students who made the semester honor roll and honorable mention.

The Lake Shore family is especially proud of these students and wish that this entire page were filled with names.
